I went to Korea and studied Korean every week day for 5 hours. Studding Korean was fun, it's because teachers taught us with full of spirit. I always enjoy with Korean native learning assistants when i practice my pronunciation. They teach us anytime and everywhere.

They teach us either in the class or when we travel around.

I felt that my Korean could improve very quickly. It's because after class we stay at the class to memorize what we learnt that day, so none of new words left behind if you really stay and memorize all the new test and words. The enjoyable part was what we learnt always can help me to talk to taxi driver, at the store, at the restaurant etc.

Buying new book and working on the book really helped me to catch up teacher's teaching speed. I felt that teaching system there good enough to make your Korean intermediate level for that one semester. I had 3 kinds of teachers. While 2 were teaching 1 teacher always come afternoon and check what you learnt this day.

All this afternoon time I was happy having help of learning assistants fixing my pronunciation, teaching me Korean everyday slangs, useful words.

My classmates all are Chinese students besides my school mate and me. So that encouraged me to communicate to my classmates in Korean which were so helpful to get improved. By the way, classmates were so kind, helpful to me.

I did not always study there. Meeting up new people, having traditional, delicious food was part of my life. Not only enjoy eating food. I learned to cook several Korean traditional foods.

We experienced very nice winter there. It may little cold for Taiwanese students. So better to bring a lot clothes to make sure not catch though cold.

The transportation was one of the way feel comfort. There are 2 buses from school to downtown and they shuttle every 5 minutes.

The thing we learnt in Andong county, one of well-known place in Korea and was the most nice place to visit when England queen come to Korea is not only Korean traditional things but also western culture, western food and goes on. You might wonder why we can learn such things there. It's because that nice place attract a lot western people. They teach English at language centers or Universities.

I went a lot activates of them such as thanksgiving day, Christmas Eve and learnt how to make pizza, cheese fried rice etc.

Like others you don't want to miss the change traditional events, holidays. The city i lived is so unique, one of nicest city in Korea, like Hualien . They celebrate tradition one of their traditional holiday in a one beautiful village names Halloe(river) and you will have chance to see walking firework from far away toward top of the mountain. By the way, once England queen came to Korea and asked them to bring her traditional place in Korea, they brought him to the Andong county. So the place I used to live is so nice. Especially you would enjoy if you have bicycle.

I also enjoyed a lot the time with my classmates. At the end of the semester we wrote the words from our heart to each other. There everybody can write a lot or less to the friends. I encouraged by their thinking of me on the paper and it was fun time.

My teacher also wrote a note for me, she encouraged me tremendously and not only her but also my another teacher is so kind and helpful. At that day whole class and teachers gave a farewell party to us and let us talk last, touching words to them. (I and my another exchange student-friend from NDHU). I still have this paper.

Korean traditional souvenir is so cute and not that expensive. I went to one famous place in Seoul which is one big street has full of traditional souvenirs and ancient antiques. It's kind of close to Seoul palace and main library of Seoul. You can buy souvenirs to your family there.

Here are three beautiful Dak paper dolls that my friend's mom made . Korean han-ji dak paper dolls. It usually takes a month to finish making a doll completely In Korea, we have a special paper called Han-Ji that is made by hand and is dyed with natural materials. It requires a lot of time to make Han-Ji; it has to go through a ten-step process. Han-Ji paper is extremely soft like cotton, but it's tough. Our ancestors used it for various things; many kinds of *Han-Ji*crafts, artwork, dolls and house wares are made of this paper.

This is Andong school dormitory. I feel like I live in a five star hotel here. It's so convenient here and so warm during winter time. One thing here that you need to be careful is you might lose your belongings. I thought it's because lot's of international students live here, even from poor country. They sometimes dare to steal your stuff. I lost my new coat when I left in the washing machine for the laundry.

One of big ceremony to hold in Andong is Mask festival. It's so interesting if you go to that festival. You will see people dancing traditional dance with mask and also you will see firework and some other stuff. Most importantly, you can mask nickels and souvenirs to present your family.

The Andong Public Folk Museum is where you can experience Confucian culture and traditional games of Korea. Andong is famous for Confucian culture and the four traditional ceremonies (the ceremonies of coming of age, marriage, funeral and ancestral worship). Here you can view the lifestyles of the past and important cultural treasures. The indoor museum is segmented into three exhibit halls. At Exhibit Hall 1, the process of going from the birth of a baby to childhood is displayed. At Exhibit Hall 2, the process of becoming an adult to the rituals of death and funeral is displayed. At Exhibit Hall 3, the daily life and traditional games are displayed in small models. Including old farming tools and cloth making process, the folk relics of this museum add up to 3,700 artifacts. There is also a visual system for videos. After you look through the indoor exhibits, head outside to the outdoor exhibits. The outdoor exhibit is a park complex, made of folk houses and cultural assets moved to this site. You will see exhibits representing the Andong lifestyle such as a stone house, a straw roofed, mud-hut and a watermill.

One day we went to Korean traditional Movie shooting place near by Andong. Jirye Arts Village is a great place to have a unique experience. Every month there are events such as making rice cake or kimchi and you can stay in traditional Korean houses. Jirye Arts Village is a village with Jisan Seodang (Cultural Asset No. 49), Jichonjongtaek (Cultural Asset No. 44), and Jichonjecheong (Cultural Asset No. 46), which were moved from the Imha Dam area because of the possibility of being flooded.
